MSU shows its sporty autonomous vehicle at Detroit Moves, a showcase of the state’s mobility technology

When #DetroitMoves, MSU is there with it.

Detroit Moves was a special collection of live demonstrations and activations hosted in Spirit Plaza in downtown Detroit from Sept. 7-9. It showcased the innovative mobility technology being designed and produced in Michigan to local, national and international visitors.

MSU sent its sporty green and white autonomous vehicle, along with monitors and Spartan Engineers to describe the autonomous technology research going on in the College of Engineering.

Detroit Moves coincided with Technology in Motion. It was presented by Crain and MSX International. Read more on Detroit Moves in Crain's Detroit Business.
