2023 Big Ten Women’s Club Conference - More Information

We are eagerly anticipating the upcoming conference, and we hope we’ll see representatives from your university! If your club needs more time to make plans, our “firm” date to meet the Kellogg Center requirements is May 15. A revised registration form is attached to this message. We have changed the deadline on the form and have added a question asking about your travel arrangements.

If your delegate or someone from your club (President, Past President, Historian or whomever) would send us a one-page paper about your club, we will copy and include it in each delegate’s registration information and to any club not represented at the conference. We ask that you include your club’s history and who belongs to your club (for example: only faculty wives; only University-connected females, only females, couples, anyone who wants to support your University, etc.). Delegates would also be interested in your activity groups, your philanthropic endeavors, and the kinds of gatherings and speakers or programs your club sponsors for members. Please attach this document to an email to me (my address is below), and please send it whether or not your club will be represented at the conference. If I receive your information by June 2, we will have time to make copies of all 14 documents and get them into the registration materials.

There are several options for travel to East Lansing.

If your delegate(s) would be driving, they can use a GPS or follow Mapquest or a similar travel site. The Kellogg Center is on the corner of Harrison Road and Michigan Avenue in East Lansing - the address is 219 South Harrison Road.

Delegates flying to the conference could fly into the Lansing airport (LAN), although it might cost less to fly into Detroit (DTW) and take the Michigan Flyer bus to East Lansing. The Flyer costs $25, and drops you at the Marriott Hotel in East Lansing. Please let us know your LAN flight or your DTW flight and Michigan Flyer times, and we will arrange for a hostess to pick you up and take you to the Kellogg Center.

Amtrack trains also make stops in East Lansing - the Amtrack station is on Harrison Road, about a mile South of the Kellogg Center - and we could also have a hostess pick you up there. Again, please let us know your estimated time of arrival.

For your information, check-in at the Kellogg Center is 4:00 PM, and check-out is at 12 noon. The hotel desk will hold your luggage for you until you can get into your room, or until you are ready to leave East Lansing. We have found their staff to be very accommodating.

If you have questions or comments about the conference, please contact me.
